

Digital May Not Have A Shelf Life.... But Books, Paper, & Film/Fiche Do!

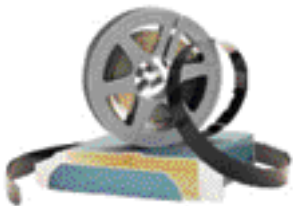

Do you need to redact sensitive personal information? Are you simply looking to convert your old records so you can clear out all those old file cabinets, books and media viewers? Want to improve your staff efficiency and customer service by making image retrieval 5 to 10 times faster?

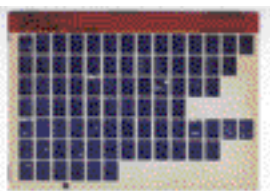

OldBook™ gives recorders and researchers the ability to quickly and easily access information from archive books and documents. Imagine – no more searching through shelves of books, catalogues of fiche or rolls of film.

You decide which approach works for you. You can manage all or part of your own conversion effort. Or, AtPac can coordinate and manage every part of the process for your office and be responsible for the end result.

Other products and approaches digitize at the roll level. However, to redact sensitive personal information or achieve the highest possible level of process improvement, you will need to convert at the image level. If your electronic indexes don't go very far back in time, the cost of re-keying them can be a major cost issue. That's the beauty of the OldBook™ system – by digitizing historic index pages and building a custom table structure, your book and page referenced documents can be accessed online directly from the index page at significantly lower costs.

Digitizing, preserving and accessing your documents has never been easier! Save time, money and valuable office space while decreasing the vulnerability of your records to disaster and decay.
